This five-day team-conducted seminar is designed specifically for the new criminal investigator, personnel who anticipate future criminal investigation unit assignment, and those with little or no previous formal training on topics relating to the methodology and procedures involved in this phase of law enforcement. The overall and basic objective is to provide the new or soon to be criminal investigator with an understanding of various aspects of criminal investigation. Through instructor classroom presentations coupled with textbook readings and suggestive references connected to these classroom presentations, participants should gain a foundation and understanding of basic investigative techniques and be mentally prepared for more advanced study on the topic.

Topics for class discussion include:

- (1) Burglary
- (2) Robbery
- (3) Gangs
- (4) Drug Investigations
- (5) Death Case Investigation: Homicide and Other Types
- (6) Bias Crime Investigation
- (7) Sex Offenses
- (8) Violent Crimes
- (9) Preparing for and Presenting Cases in Court

INSTRUCTOR: Lt. David Doherty, Criminal Investigation Unit, Bergenfield Police Department, Bergenfield, New Jersey (retired). Lt. Doherty will be assisted in the classroom instruction by other highly experienced criminal investigators.
